

CAL, 37-WARN.V, 1B-

California

San Diego

Warner Springs

AMI

3s

2p

4d

State

County

~~XTMCM~~ Vicinity

Barn Trading Post - Warner Ranch

(CAL-425)

Structure

Library Material: Pages of a Report, 4; Photographs, 2;
Measured Drawings, 3.

History: Built ca. 1844 as a barn for the ranch of Jonathon Trumbull Warner; it was later used as a trading post for immigrants entering California. In 1851, it was burned in an Indian raid, but was rebuilt in 1858 and was used about three years as a way-station for Butterfield's Overland Mail Co. The Warner Ranch is a Registered Nat.
Hist. Landmark and Calif. Hist. Landmark #311.

INKED CRONARS, REPRODUCIBLES

FN-201 (over)

NO COVER

Form 10-444 (2/62) 9408

HISTORIC AMERICAN BUILDINGS SURVEY

Description: Early walls were of adobe. Rebuilt using walls and roof framing of hewn timber, morticed and pegged. Exterior walls are vertical siding of rough planks. Storage area, stables and tack room with grooming stalls. Shake roof, board and batten weather boarding.

References: Warner, The Man and The Ranch, Warren L. Morrison, 1962. The Warner's Ranch Butterfield Puzzle, Wm. L. Wright, 1961. Historic Spots in California, Hoover and Rensch, (Revised) 1958.

Index Card Prepared by: Melvin M. Rotsch, Professor, Texas A&M University, Summer Advisory Architect, WODC, NPS
August 1965